Almost a Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Red Cross Pharmacy.

DYED MY WHITE SWEATER BLUE

I had a white sweater that annoyed me a lot because it showed every speck of soil. I got some navy blue Dy-o-la (10c worth) and I made it a navy blue sweater in a hurry. And I like it a lot better than a white one. If you have not used Dy-o-la for home dyeing, you will be surprised to learn that they dye all fabrics equally well, silk, cotton, woolen and mixed goods are all the same if you use Dy-o-la. Most of our drug stores are selling it now.

RED ITCHING SKIN

LIKELY TO BE FIRST STAGE OF ECZEMA—WHAT TO DO.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

When the skin of face or body feels hot, drawn and irritable, it is likely to break out with small watery pimples, accompanied by violent itching. This is one form of eczema, and should be attended to at once.

In all our experience we have never found anything to give such uniformly good results in skin troubles and eruptions, whether acute or chronic, as our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve.

Besides allaying the frightful itching almost as soon as applied, it sinks into the skin like water into a sponge and thus completely envelops the diseased portion with its powerful healing and soothing ingredients. Improvement is seen in a very short time, and the skin is rendered soft and smooth again.

We cheerfully give back your money if Saxon Salve is not satisfactory. Red Cross Pharmacy, Barre, Vt.

Attention Ladies!

We are representatives of a New York City ladies' and misses' suit and coat house, located at 1261 Broadway, New York. Now that the Easter rush is over in the large cities, we are prepared to furnish you the very latest of New York City styles on seven days' order. We have at hand a large line of material samples to choose from, also fashion plates. These goods are sold only from samples and chart measurements. We can guarantee exclusiveness in patterns in suits. This particular line is intended for the cash buyer, and to dispute with the mail order houses for business in this territory. These goods are not sold from canvass, but in an emergency, upon solicitation, we will call at your homes with samples, etc. Give us a chance to compete before placing your order. Suit prices from $13.50 to $60.00. Costs from $9.50 to $35.00.

The remainder of our line of men's and boys' clothing, furniture, floor coverings, household goods, watches, clocks, and jewelry, at our usual liberal terms and at a much lower price, as we have dispensed with house to house canvassers and will sell these goods less the percentage before paid to canvassers. Make your cash purchase the most. Make your credit procure more of the comforts of life.

The Fur Question

With the passing of the winter season, the careful owner of Furs will have them repaired and remodeled for next season. It should be done now, when there is plenty of time, ensuring a more careful and satisfactory job, and at summer prices.

Bush orders cannot have the personal attention that I would give all work that comes in at this time.

Every owner of Furs, whether man or woman, can have them made up in the 1912 models as well now as to wait until the last of the season.

Remember that Furs brought in at once have special attention at special prices. Thousands of satisfied customers is my guarantee.

Rome G. Brown Gets One-Third Father's Estate.

The Brown will case, which was an appeal to county court by Rome G. Brown, was settled yesterday out of court by allowing Mr. Brown the third of the estate, which, according to the will of his father, Col. A. C. Brown, was to go in trust to Rome Brown's children. There were two other heirs, who agreed to the terms, and Mr. Brown produced affidavits from his family signifying their willingness for such a settlement. He based his appeal on the grounds of undue influence and the case was to have been tried this week. H. C. Shurtliff of this city and A. B. Jackson of Minneapolis were Mr. Brown's counsel, and F. L. Laird and W. A. Lord appeared for the will.

Fifteen candidates are taking the examinations at the State House before the state board of pharmacy.

James Nelson, well known here from frequent visits, died yesterday at his home in Fort Ann, N. Y. Mr. Nelson would have been 100 years old had he lived until the 3d of May. Mrs. R. D. Stewart of Berlin is the daughter of Mr. Nelson.

Some of the stores which were closed Monday on account of the flood effects opened yesterday, but most of them were still engaged in pumping the water out of the cellars and trying to get a semblance of order, after the hurried removal of goods Sunday. Lack of heat in stores and offices because of water around furnaces caused many offices to close, and merchants dealing in oil heaters nearly disposed of their stock. F. W. Mitchell of the McCuen store estimates his loss at $1,500. Both rivers fell several feet yesterday, and it is not expected further thaws will cause the same flood conditions. There were not enough men available yesterday to clear the cellars of affected places and the stonsheds.

SOUTH RYEGATE.

Walter Foster has purchased the Roundly farm and will raise poultry.

W. O. Belknap was in Boston and New York last week, buying spring goods.

Elroy Isham has taken Irving Roberts' place in J. Hewitt's store, as Mr. Roberts is carrying on his farm.

The children of W. O. Belknap have been seriously ill and Miss Wilson, the trained nurse, is helping to care for them.

George Harrington bought the Ringham place in this village and then traded with C. C. Southworth for his house on Chelsea street.

BERLIN.

Fred Reed is working for Jay Rich of Northfield.

Malcolm, young son of Mr. and Mrs. David LeFebvre, is very sick with an attack of bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Allie Wilfore of Williamstown are visiting their daughter, Mrs. David LeFebvre.

Miss Hallie Stewart is helping Mrs. E. B. House, who is suffering with an attack of muscular rheumatism.

Miss Freida Duprey, who has been caring for her aunt, Miss Edith Blanchard, has gone to her home in Northfield.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Blanchard are stopping with C. B. Blanchard until the roads open, when they will move onto the farm which they recently purchased.

REARING THE CHICKS.

Help That May Be Given Them in the Struggle for Existence.

It is a comparatively easy matter to hatch almost any number of chicks, but the rearing of them to maturity is an entirely different matter, says the Philadelphia Record. Newly-hatched chicks are tender little creatures at best, and even with the very best of care a certain percentage of them will die before they are a month old, and if neglected a larger number of them will be gone before they reach that age. The great loss among little chicks is due to numerous causes, such as hereditary weakness, ignorance or carelessness on the part of the caretaker, improper food, chilling, overheating, lice, exposure, etc. Hereditary weakness or low vitality should be guarded against by using only strong, vigorous birds that are as free from the taints of disease as is possible to get them.

Ancestral vigor has much to do with a chick's chance of reaching maturity. The breeding birds should be full of vigor and vitality, which is indicated by bright eyes and bright red combs. It is a waste of time and effort to try to raise chicks that are the progeny of weakly, emaciated stock. Fifteen or twenty years ago probably 75 per cent. of all the chicks hatched in this country were fed practically nothing but wet cornmeal during the first month of their lives—if many of them happened to live that long. In some cases it was boiled and made into a mush and in other cases was simply mixed with water and fed in a sloppy and sometimes sour condition.

As the importance of the poultry industry became manifest, however, the matter of properly feeding the chicks to decrease the death rate, promote steady growth and produce vigorous, healthy fowls, was made a matter of special study and scientific investigation, and as a consequence the sloppy and even wet foods of all kinds were long ago discarded and nothing but dry foods used in the majority of cases. In addition to good foods, the chicks must have dry, clean quarters, must be kept free from lice and mites, must have pure water to drink at all times, and must be protected from the cold and dampness of spring and the heat of summer. If their quarters are allowed to become filthy, whether it be a brooder or coop, disease and death are sure to result. Filth is not only the natural breeding place for disease germs, but also for lice and mites, and it is no wonder that chicks kept in such quarters are weak, puny and sickly and no wonder they die.

If the chicks come from strong, vigorous ancestry and are properly fed and housed, the owner will have little use for the medicine chest. But it is well to have a few simple remedies handy, nevertheless. If any of the chicks show indications of bowel trouble, a few drops of camphor in the drinking water will afford relief and effect a cure of the disease in its incipient stage. A few drops of tincture of iron in the drinking water occasionally is good for the chicks, but the best and cheapest tonic is good, pure air and sunshine. See that the chicks get a sun bath on every pleasant day, even in early spring. But see also that they are protected from the raw winds. Sunshine is just as beneficial to young chicks as to young plants. Coupled with pure air, it is nature's remedy for all disease and a promoter of health.

DUTCH BELTED CATTLE.

Connecticut Farmer Gives Reason for Preferring This Breed.

Oscar A. Leonard of Tolland county, Connecticut, writes to the Rural New Yorker: You ask me why I consider the Dutch belted cattle superior to other breeds. This is rather a hard question to answer. I commenced with these cattle 25 years ago; their beauty first took my attention and I bought a grade cow, and she proved so good I finally bought a purebred bull and two heifer calves about 20 years ago, and have been growing a herd of purebreds ever since, having over 20 head now, and while, like other breeds, I find a poor one once in a while, I find them to be a very hardy, easy-keeping and sizeable breed, and one special point, very desirable. I have never had a wilted, nor an ugly bull. They give a good supply of milk and of a very good quality; have several cows in my herd good for 20 quarts or better when fresh. This is a comparatively young breed in this country and have not the records to back them up as yet, but the Dutch Belted Cattle association is considering this, I understand, and will hear more from this breed in the future, for they are not
